from Nannypalooza.com

Why should you send your nanny to NNTD?

- ◆ useful sessions on topics directly related to the care of your children
- ◆ connections with other like-minded caregivers that will help your nanny find play groups, kid friendly activities and build a professional network
- ◆ ideas and inspiration that your nanny can use on the job immediately
- ◆ demonstrate how much you value your nanny as a professional

National Nanny Training Day is an initiative organized by Nannypalooza.com to promote awareness of the important connection between nanny training and quality of care. On Saturday, April 18th over 1,500 nannies from 35 cities across the country will gather in their local communities at training events designed to meet their unique needs.

Each organizer is planning an event with hot topics, top notch, expert presenters and great networking, all in a fun, relaxed atmosphere.

Please consider covering the cost of this event for your nanny. It's a small investment with a big payoff. Study after study shows that caregivers who receive ongoing training consistently provide higher quality care and are happier in their jobs.
